

Go with alphabetical order when there are many elements and/or there isn't a good natural order

Case	Any ▲ Any Accusative Dative Genitive Nominative Vocative	Gender	Any ▲ Any Masculine Feminine Neuter
Person	Any ▲ Any 1st person 2nd person 3rd person	Tense	Any ▲ Any Aorist Imperfect Future Perfect Pluperfect Present
Number	Any ▲ Any Singular Plural	Voice	Any ▲ Any Active Passive Middle Middle/Passive

You can always choose "Any" if you just wanted to look at the options and not select them. So maybe it shouldn't be grayed out?

Part of Speech	Any ▲ Any Adjective Adverb Article/Determiner Conjunction Interjection Noun Number Particle Preposition Pronoun Verbal
Mood	Any ▲ Any Indicative Imperative Infinitive Optative Participle Subjunctive

Lexical Form	logl
	λογεια λογιζομαι λογικος λογιον λογισμος

Surface Form	poreuthentesl
	πορευθεντες

As you type in Greek or in an English transcription, a MANAGEABLE number of suggestions come up

Feature request: English glosses alongside the words, and maybe you can search the glosses too. Would take up a lot of space though